Senior Consultant at Good Company

Do you dream of a role where you can create sustainable changes for the benefit of humans, organisations, and the world around us?

Then come and join us!

Good Company is a consultancy company specialised in organisational development and change. We are enthusiastic about developing company and human strategies and converting them into practice.

We engage in analysis, strategic planning, project leadership, facilitation, and training for leaders and employees within organisations. Our expertise lies in providing valuable insights, assisting in the formulation of strategies, guiding projects to success, and creating value through effective facilitation and training initiatives.

As a Senior Consultant at Good Company, you will be part of a dedicated team of consultants that aim for creating impact for our customers every day. You will be exposed to a wide range of deliverables from lead generation to customer deliverables and development activities. You will be responsible for driving change and leading projects as well as nurturing and maintaining customer engagement.

Based on your capabilities and development aspirations, your engagements will vary within our different areas of expertise:

Strategy Development: We design and develop strategies in close collaboration with the organisations we work with. We strive to set an ambitious strategic direction based on the organisation’s capabilities and potential. We place great importance on assisting our customers in translating their strategic visions into practical and actionable steps, ensuring the successful execution and realisation of their goals.

Leadership Development: We are inspired by the regenerative leadership approach and help leaders move into a new level of insight on their own leadership style and their approach to life. We believe the future calls for a more sustainable and connected leadership, where the ability to judge right from wrong and leaving old paradigms behind is key. We focus on the diversity of the humans that make up organisations and help them on the common mission of leaving the world a better place.

Project Management: We execute and implement project and programme management. We focus on cultivating a strong project and programme culture in the organisations we collaborate with, with timely and impactful deliverables. As projects managers we are curious, inquisitive, analytic, creative, and pragmatic.

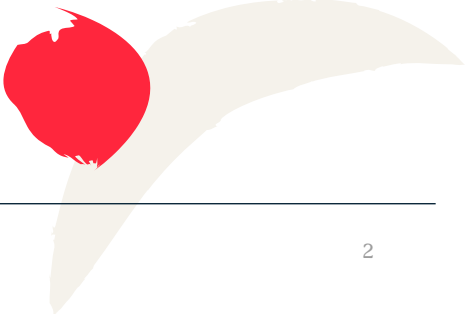

Facilitation and Workshop Design: We improve quality and create value in meetings, workshops, virtual sessions and large-scale events through focused design and professional facilitation. We help implement new meeting structures and nurturing constructive meeting cultures across the organisation.

Organisational Transformation: We design, develop, and implement organisational change and transformation. Whether it is behavioural change or larger more structural changes in the organisation. Our collaborative approach empowers organisations to navigate the complexities of change, drive successful transformations, and achieve their desired outcomes.

Circular Work Life: We help customers obtain a more balanced work life where there is room for self-insight, reflection, spacing and pauses...and we strive to role model the circular work life ourselves. We have a pragmatic approach using both classical time- and priority hacks and the healing effect of nature, mindfulness, and mental presence.

What you will be a part of

When you join the Good Company team, you will find yourself in a workplace that places great importance on your personal growth and development. We guarantee an environment where you will encounter stimulating challenges and receive support from a team of driven and talented consultants.

We genuinely care for each other, so you will be welcomed into a warm and dedicated team, who care for each other and interact socially as well as professionally.

You will be exposed to a variety of projects both within the public and private sector, and you will get the opportunity to work side by side with other senior professionals. We have a healthy feedback culture where we help each other learn and develop.

What we expect from you:

- You have knowledge about and experience within at least one of the six areas: Strategy Development, Leadership Development, Project Management, Facilitation and Workshop Design, Organisational Transformation, Circular Work Life.
- You thrive with a minimum of control, hierarchy, and organisational structure and bureaucracy.
- You possess a robust sales network that holds the capability to generate new projects, and you eagerly embrace the responsibility of driving sales within your designated area.
- You have strong interpersonal skills and the ability to engage with customers at all levels.
- You have at least +5 years of experience in consulting.
- You love to work in teams but also independently.
- You have proven capabilities in PowerPoint and MS Office in general.
